

War Drums Beat Around the World as U.S. Paralyzed by Infighting

The United States of America Corporation, now four months into its bankruptcy, is becoming increasingly dysfunctional and torn by infighting. This has left a power vacuum around the world and is raising the specter of multiple regional wars breaking out. Meanwhile, East-West negotiations to replace the U.S. corporation in D.C. with something more functional remain stalled as Asian representatives feign “health issues,” to avoid new talks. This could result in a combined U.S., Indian, Japanese and Russian assault against China if left unattended for too long, warn members of the Black Sun military order.

The rising international tensions come as the U.S. government is now withdrawing or reducing its military presence in Iraq, Afghanistan, Israel, Germany, and elsewhere. U.S. President Donald Trump is doing this due to a combination of failed campaigns, isolationism, and a lack of funds.

The biggest fallout of the U.S. disarray continues to be seen in the Middle East where a drawdown in U.S. forces is leading to a multi-pronged attempt to re-establish the Ottoman Empire. Turkey is now waging de facto wars of conquest (reconquest?) in Iraq, Syria, Libya, and Yemen.

<https://news.antiwar.com/2020/06/19/iraqi-kurdistan-may-become-a-proxy-battle-for-uae-and-turkey/>

<https://dailytimes.com.pk/627354/france-wants-talks-over-aggressive-turkish-posture-in-libya/>

Turkish military sources say a deal has been reached with Iran to split the Middle East. Iran will get the Shia parts of Iraq and Syria. However, Turkey is engaged in a proxy war against Iran in Yemen, with the real prize being control of the Saudi Oil fields in the mostly Shia provinces bordering Yemen. Turkey is thus now de facto seeking control of Saudi Arabia, Egypt, Libya, and Israel, sources say.

This grand plan can be seen unfolding on the ground. In Iraq, Turkey has responded immediately to the announced U.S. withdrawal by making a major incursion into Kurdistan. The endgame is to take over all of the Sunni parts of Iraq, Turkish sources say.

The Turks have also ousted warlord Khalifa Haftar from around the capital of Tripoli in Libya and are now targeting his home turf in Eastern Libya, where 70% of the nation’s oil reserves are located.

Since France’s economy depends in large part on Libyan oil (paid for with FIAT Euros) a French warship tried to stop a Turkish vessel from supplying arms to its forces in Libya last week. The result was that Turkish warships threatened a French warship with a missile attack three times before the French withdrew. The fact that two supposed NATO allies nearly started a sea battle shows just how much the de facto U.S. absence is destabilizing the situation. France asked for NATO help but it is not clear if NATO has an interest in helping that country continue its theft of Libyan oil.

<https://dailytimes.com.pk/627354/france-wants-talks-over-aggressive-turkish-posture-in-libya/>

Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov and Defense Minister Sergey Shoygu wanted to send a delegation of military and security officials to Turkey but “as no progress was expected to be made through any sort of negotiation at this stage, the decision was made to postpone the Russian foreign and defense ministers’ visit to Turkey,” a senior Turkish official told Turkish media. In other words, Turkey was choosing war and assuming Russia would back down.

<https://www.yenisafak.com/en/columns/mehmetacet/what-does-haftar-have-to-do-with-russian-ministers-postponing-their-visit-to-turkey-2047489>

The situation has gotten to the point where Egypt is the only country in the Middle East with an army big enough to stop Turkey. Egypt has already threatened to intervene against Turkey in Libya. Turkish state media responded by saying “Egyptian President Abdel Fattah el Sisi’s threat of military intervention is 'unacceptable,' and 'amounts to a declaration of war.'"

<https://www.trtworld.com/africa/egypt-military-threat-declaration-of-war-libya-37464>

Egypt ranks 9th in world military power compared to 11th for Turkey so any battle between these countries over control of the Middle East would be the largest war since WWII.

<https://www.globalfirepower.com/countries-listing.asp>

Israel, by the way, ranks 18th in military power, and thus, now that it no longer has U.S. military support, would have to bow to the winner of this conflict. Of course, the arrogant Zionists are shooting themselves in the foot (if not the head) by planning to annex the West Bank. They would be better off siding with crypto-Jew el Sisi against Turkey if they knew what was good for them.

Things are further complicated for Egypt because neighbor Ethiopia is building a dam across the Blue Nile, threatening Egypt's lifeline. Russian analysts think a war between Egypt and Ethiopia (each country with a population of about 100 million) is inevitable.

<https://www.zerohedge.com/geopolitical/egypt-ethiopia-are-verge-war-over-water-nile-crisis-escalates>

The Middle East is not the only place in turmoil. There is also now the very real possibility of a war involving Pakistan and China against India. The fiercest border clashes between India and China since the 1960s have been in the news for several weeks now. Last week Pakistan joined the fray by bombarding India. It appears Pakistan and China are betting the U.S. would not participate in a battle over Kashmir and disputed Himalayan territories, according to MI6 analysis.

<https://www.news18.com/news/india/pakistan-opens-fire-and-lobbs-mortars-at-forward-areas-along-loc-ib-in-jammu-kashmir-2679719.html>

<https://www.businesstoday.in/current/economy-politics/india-china-border-row-govt-grants-emergency-funds-to-armed-forces-for-war-preparedness/story/407563.html>

India, for its part, needs to incorporate Sri Lanka and Bangladesh, to counter Pakistani and Chinese influence in the region, MI6 analysts say.

The U.S. military appears to be concentrating its efforts now on China and South America, leaving Europe, India, and the Middle East to Russia and whoever else wants to fill in the vacuum.

In South America, the U.S. regime failed to seize the world's largest oil reserves in Venezuela, as China, Russia, Iran, and Cuba offered protection. <https://tass.com/world/1165191>

Since the U.S. corporate government can't get Venezuelan oil it has tripled Columbian cocaine production in order to get desperately needed hard currency. Some sort of joint Columbian and Brazilian move on Venezuela is still possible but not very likely.

<https://www.zerohedge.com/geopolitical/us-army-deploys-elite-trainers-help-colombia-after-cocaine-production-triples>

The real battlefield is, of course, China and the Far East. The U.S. has sent three carrier groups to the South China Sea while China has begun serious provocations against U.S. ally Taiwan.

<https://focustaiwan.tw/cross-strait/202006210014>

However, a certain secret American deep state agency made a huge strategic mistake when it instructed South Korean agents to use U.S. hi-tech energy weaponry to effectively "poison" North Korean strongman Kim Jon Un when he met Trump because that eliminated a major potential ally. If the Americans knew what was good for them, they would punish Kim's murderers to cut the tail off the lizard and try to forge an anti-Chinese alliance of Japan and a unified Korean Peninsula. The Japanese, who have never been historically a part of China, would welcome such a move. The Koreans are also wary of becoming a Chinese province.

The Chinese, meanwhile, are looking to take over Indonesia and Australia, according to Asian secret society sources. This can be seen most recently by a state-sponsored cyber-attack against the Australian government. CIA sources in South East Asia say over one million Chinese agents have infiltrated Indonesia in recent years. <https://www.rt.com/news/492306-australia-cyber-attack-state-actor/>

Of course, Indonesia is also key to any sort of reboot of the global financial system that is the subject of ongoing secret East-West negotiations. The outline agreed to so far envisages combining traditional Asian gold and other treasures with the here and now FIAT financial system controlled by the West.

U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo was in Indonesia last week on a secret mission to try and gain control of Indonesian gold, according to P3 Freemason sources. However, he returned empty-handed. Western intelligence agency sources with security clearance above POTUS say “Mr. Trump and Mr. Pompeo have been asked to stand back as ‘diplomatic surgery’ takes place.”

According to these sources:

“We envisage the future planning agency being both headquartered in London and in Tokyo, with West and East alignment for ease of always-on management. If things get settled we will provide an operating budget and we can then move to granular details.

Right now the Asian money is “illiquid and they need to execute a transaction to free that into existing FIAT currency. The FRB is now controlled by the U.S. Treasury so the U.S. agencies will need to engage. We will work with them on five eyes so we can look into that. It may be for that reason Mr. Pompeo made a move.”

Once the future planning agency funding is secured, the dysfunctional U.S. government will be replaced, root and branch, according to Pentagon sources. The U.S. military, as the only functional part of the apparatus, will help oversee a complete chapter 11 reorganization of the U.S. corporation. It may or may not involve a merger of the United States and Canada, the sources say

If such a merger takes place, “not in a million years,” would the “Castro type Iranian, Jesuit Satanic nut case,” Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau be given a role, according to MI6 British intelligence.

There may be more for young Castro to worry about if a rumored 5,000 protesters assemble at the American Embassy in Ottawa on July 1st with a formal request for the FBI and the Mexican National police to investigate the “crimes of Justin Trudeau and rampant corruption in Canada and the RCMP under section 27.5 of the USMCA, which comes into effect on that day.”

Meanwhile, P3 Freemason sources say both the Rockefeller and Rothschild clans have agreed to surrender and help with the new system. The problem is the gnostic Illuminati remain opposed to any participation by these bloodline oligarchs. The P3 is trying to mediate.

With such complications, the negotiations are looking like they will not conclude before the autumn, according to sources involved. When they do though, a big celebrity bash involving musicians is expected to kick off the new system, the sources added.

In the meantime gear up for a long hot summer, especially in the U.S. The anarchy there is expected to worsen but the U.S. military will make sure no major bloodshed or full-scale civil war takes place. Any election in November will require full-scale military intervention to ensure voting takes place using paper ballots amid freedom of the press.